

PRESS STATEMENT FOR RELEASE 31.01.12

80S EXTRAVAGANZA RAISES NEARLY £500 FOR MULTIPLE SCLEROSIS

A charity event held last weekend at CurveMotion, in Bury St Edmunds, raised £484.98 for the Multiple Sclerosis Society.

The "80's extravaganza" was held at CurveMotion on Saturday 21st January, and those attending were encouraged to wear 80's style fancy dress and come along and skate and dance to cheesy tunes from the era. There was a raffle, various games, including name the Gruffalo and guess the number of flying saucer sweets in a jar, as well as an 80's lyrics quiz. There were also themed meals on sale including a Pacman Panini, an A-Team burger and a Ghostbusters Sundae. In addition, CurveMotion donated a percentage of the entrance fees from all those who turned up in fancy dress to the charity.

CurveMotion decided to host and organise the event after being approached by Allison Humphreys, a 39 year old mother of two from Moreton Hall, one of their regular skaters, who herself suffers from MS.

Sarah Stamp, spokeswoman for CurveMotion said: "The whole day was great fun, we were really busy, and as always people were happy to support such a great cause. Some of the fancy dress costumes, particularly in the evening, were outstanding! Fundraisers like these are as much about raising awareness for the cause as they are about raising funds and having fun, and we are really delighted to have been able to help such an important local charity."

Allison Humphreys added: "I am so pleased at the way the whole day went – not only did CurveMotion arrange a really fun event, but all the staff came in fancy dress and really got into the spirit of things, and the money raised can help the MS Society continue with important research."
